Opportunities to Serve in North Dakota

“The harvest is plentiful but the workers are few.

Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore, to send out workers into his harvest field.”

Our Lord talks about the ‘harvest’ in Luke 10:2 and again in Matthew 9:37-38. Obviously Jesus is speaking about the fact that there are so many in the world who need Him but there are not enough to witness about Him. Clearly there are opportunities all around us to win souls to Christ and there always will be. But because we work or have worked in the oil patch and are members of the Oilfield Christian Fellowship, for many of us our focus is sharing the Good News of Christ within the our industry and for good reason.

It is well known that if a man or woman who works in the oil industry and begins to truly follow Jesus Christ, there is a good chance that they may travel to places around the world sharing the Gospel where missionaries and others are not accepted.

Great sunsets in North Dakota

The fact that this scripture passage contains the word ‘field’ makes me think of our industry even more so, as in ‘oil field’. And last Maynever have I seen the opportunities more evident as Jim Cook and I witnessed in the Williston, Minot, Watford City, Dickinson, ND areas, with a jaunt over the border to Fairview, Montana. Of course I’m speaking of the now famous Bakken Shale play which by the way, the bulk of the formation is stretching northwesterly out of ND just across the border into Saskatchewan, Canada skirting the NE corner of Montana and the SW corner of Manitoba as well.

But the action for now is ND, with an incredible 170 plus rigs running, some 350 services companies, with more of both moving in every day. If there is such a word as boomtown in the dictionary, Williston should be one of the descriptions listed. We met people from China, (working at a service station); Russia, working for a service company; Thailand, working at a restaurant in a hotel we frequented and from states too many to mention.

Of course with this boom, especially in a town with a population listed in the latest Rand McNally Road Atlas as 12,193, there are problems. One of them obviously is housing, land to build on and the lack of hotels and apartments. Construction is everywhere including hundreds of modular homes and trailers being brought in each month. The other problem is not having enough people locally to support the normal businesses, with the lure of better wages offered by the operators and service companies stealing them away.

Gas is being flared on many wells

Oil Patch Chaplain Training Scheduled for August!

The next Oil Patch Chaplain two day training is scheduled at Gospel Lakes Ranch, just north of Conroe near New Waverly, Texas. Our hosts will be owners Bennie and Judy Hasha. Check the facilities and what they are all about at: www.gospellakes.org. Many of you will remember Bennie as being in the oil business for many years and his dad was one of the founders of Gator Hawk so many years ago. He has also been a speaker at the OCF.

"Bennie and Judy converted a catfish farm into a ministry retreat named Gospel Lakes Ranch. It is located in New Waverly, Texas. Their goal is to expose boys and girls to the Gospel of Christ in an outdoor, campground-type setting."

There are accommodations for both nights, a large meeting room and there are lakes to fish in. Meals will be cooked on site. The Cost per person is $60 which includes lodging ,food, honorarium for our instructor Dr. Naomi Paget and workbooks. This will be the 'manual' training that is required before a person can become an Oil Patch Chaplain. (Two more days of study is also required; 'one on one' and 'group' will be scheduled at a later date.)

Contact me today at jbirdocf@suddenlink.net for reservations or questions.

The dates are August Friday, August 26th and Saturday August 27th, from 8 AM until 4:30 PM each day. Those who want to stay at the ranch can arrive as early as Thursday.

A good example: When Jim and I left early one morning, our destination being Fairview, Montana, (We drove several hundred miles during the five day stay.), we purposed to stop at the only McDonalds in Williston to grab a quick bite and then be off down the road. But expediency was not on the menu that morning.

Modular homes arriving daily

Construction all around Williston They've already come and sold out; hundreds of trailers at $1500 a month rental! Watford City, N.D.

Not only was there just one person to take the orders of about 15 of us now single file and hungry but the young man taking our orders could only speak broken English! A vision of me trying to explain to someone in a foreign land what was wrong with my computer and he having to methodically repeat every letter that I gave him for my name, e mail and such came to mind as I stood there waiting for my turn. And I was not disappointed. Obviously he was there to learn English and boy was he on the fast track to do so and the hard way. Jim and I were courteous and patient but from the smell of diesel somewhere down the line, I would guess that after we left he would be getting an earful of English words he wouldn't want to remember!

But I have to give it to him and others who are there from all over. If he had the fortitude and determination to come half way round the world to an area of the United States where some snow was still on the ground in May and the winter temperatures often below freezing, to learn English and make his fortune, more power to him! With that kind of grit he'll own the place one day. By the way, we got three, rather than two items that we ordered! One can only imagine the scene after we left and rest of the morning events.

Talk about your 'shovel ready projects' Mr. President!

The streets and highways are taking a pounding from the constant heavy trucks and vehicles. This, coupled with the fact that the area had a late, large, and extremely wet snow causing mass electrical outages, I'm sure finds the local authorities hard pressed to keep pace with the wear and tear on the byways. When we went to church on Sunday morning, our teacher went around the large circle of attendees and asked each couple the question, "Do you have water in your basement?" And almost all said they did and had sump pumps going 24 hrs a day, most never having a moisture problem before.

Further, because of the boom, FBC Pastor, Dr. Ashley Olinger told us that even if they could get some heavy equipment freed from building drilling sites, the costs have tripled for the same land preparation they had planned to begin by now and of course the cost of a new building is out in the stratosphere also.

The local pastors and many in their congregations that we met with were zealous to win the oilfield for Christ and are looking for answers. Of course this is one of the reasons that board member Jim Cook and I made the trip and we were very encouraged by the interests. But more importantly, as he I had the opportunity to share Christ one on one at some of our stops, it was evident that the Holy Spirit was already at work preparing the people's hearts for the Gospel.

Bird's Eye View

What About Us?!

— Oh to be as comfortable as a dog

Recently as Jim Cook and I were checking our baggage in at the Minot, N.D. airport for our trip back to Houston, with a chuckle he directed me to read a large Delta sign prominently displayed for everyone to take note of lest we violate yet another (important) Federal law.

As you can see, it begins with a stern DO YOU KNOW?; then the following directives that I'm sure had to go through both houses of Congress several times before the president finally signed off on them. Of course this was not a single bill when it passed but as always was attached to 2000 others including a 10 Billion dollar, twelve acre habitat and gambling casino to be built for the Dunes Sagebrush Lizards near Monahans, a law banning smoking in ANWAR and the OK for Revlon to manufacture six more Dolphin-free shades of lipstick including, Drought Beige, Road Rage Crimson and Red-and-Yellow-Get-a-Fellow Scarlet.

No seriously, it's 'de law!

- United States Department of Agriculture, (USDA), regulations require that containers used to transport dogs and cats be large enough to ensure that the animal has enough space to turn about normally while standing, to stand and sit erect, and to lie in a normal position. (CFR 9, part 3, Section 3.14)

Now friends I love animals and I would never mistreat one, but a federal law to insure their comfort?? Is an animal owner that stupid, that they would endanger their 35 pound cat Fifi? I think not, but here is where this law irks me to no end. How about the government insures that we passengers have the same rights on the plane as an animal!! Talk about inequality!

"..space large enough to turn about normally while standing.."

Are you kidding me?! While Fido is doing back flips in his 'container' and eating dog biscuits, I in my 'container', with my insipid cup of coffee and crummy mini pretzels, has just had the seat in front of me shoved two inches from my face where now the USA Today I was reading is just a blur and my hands and elbows now pressed awkwardly and painfully into my chest! But this is not all bad as this interruption has momentarily taken my mind off the sharp pain now shooting from the middle of my back to the tips of my toes from sitting in a cramped position for the first thirty minutes of a six hour flight! Then there's the blinking 'Fasten your seat belts sign' and the captain's mumbled announcement that "It's going to be a little bumpy" and the fact that if I can ever manage it, I have to squeeze over the rotund man sitting on the aisle seat that should be sitting in two seats, to go to the bathroom!

"...to stand and sit erect and to lie in a normal position."

Oh but if we could do this, but unless Congress intervenes on our behalf, the only way for us to 'stand, sit erect and lie in a normal position' is to own a plane, never fly coach again or travel by train.

The sign goes on to tell us; - Dogs and cats traveling internationally are subject to the laws and regulations of each country on the itinerary. The actual measurements of each animal being shipped may be required prior to acceptance by Delta. "laws and regulations of each country..." does this mean they need a passport? Does this mean that one's animal is subject to legally becoming the main course if lost while traveling in some countries?

- Failure to comply with all applicable laws and regulations may result in significant fines and/or criminal prosecution.

- A "Measurement guide for Dog and Cat Containers" is available from Delta to aid in determining the correct container size. (That's right; you are too stupid to figure this one out on your own. "Francine; come here and help me stretch Rex out. You take his front legs and I'll take the back and I'll measure; danged if I'm gonna' be fined again!")

"What are you in for?"

"I took a three day trip to Davenport back last spring to see the folks and shipped Bruiser in a crate just one inch shy of his ability to lie down, someone turned me in and I was arrested. Now I'm serving one to three years but not only this, when I get out I'm forbidden to ever vote Republican again and will have to wear an ankle bracelet for two months while completing 100 hours of public service at a PETA shelter where Bruiser now lives as a foster dog."

- Don't let what happened to this young man happen to you! Comply with United States Department of Agriculture, (USDA), regulations (CFR 9, part 3, Section 3.14), and hope that one day we humans will be treated half as well when we fly.

- "Those that respect the law and love sausage should watch neither being made." Mark Twain

We have to laugh at the absurdity of things like this for a lot of reasons but the main one is to be healthy. In fact the Bible says it best in Proverbs:

"A cheerful heart is good medicine, but a crushed spirit dries up the bones" -Proverbs 17:22

So the next time you get all torque up about something, take a deep breath, try to find the humor in the situation, remember that above all you are a child of God and maybe recount a favorite scripture such as the following:

Finally, brothers and sisters, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things. Philippians 4:8

Voting helps a lot as well!

And finally, how are we going to join in where God is already at work?

As you will see from 'Chapter News' in this edition, after four plus years in Big Piney, Pam and Drew Crabtree have moved back to Missouri for the haying season and a well deserved sabbatical. However they will be making a trip to the Williston area soon to meet with pastors and others to see if they can replicate the successful truck and trailer ministry that they had in Big Piney; perhaps committing to stay there for two years. Because both the OCF and the Oil Patch Chaplains have a keen interest in what they decide, all their expenses will be paid by both organizations. (They are both qualified Oil Patch Chaplains.)

Truck and Trailer Ministry in the Jonah Field near Big Piney, Wyoming

Here are some things that we need to make this happen for them if they should decide to go on the field again:

We need the money for a truck and winterized trailer and a place for this couple to live along with some of their expenses taken care of. (They have paid the bulk of their expenses in the past and we need others to help fill the gap in this respect.) Contact me if you can help out in any way. (See my contact information on back page.)

Meeting other Christians who witness in the 'Patch' in North Dakota

One of the most interesting persons we met and had dinner with he and two of his six children is a gentleman by the name of Ron Evitt, aka The Preacher in the Patch.

Ron was saved at a revival meeting in 1971 and "has not been the same since".

He graduated from the University of Wyoming in 1985 as a Petroleum Engineer and has worked in the oil industry ever since.

In 1988 his pastor asked him to take over the jail ministry in Williston and has enjoyed preaching the Gospel in the Williams County Jail every Sunday morning that he is in town. Ron's family of six children and wife, Rachelle, began singing together as a family band in the mid-nineties. The family sang in nursing homes at first, then churches, fellowship gatherings, parks, near bars across highways, and now crusades.

The rest is history as they say. Since then they have performed and he has preached in some 35 city wide crusades, featuring name Christian artist and held for days at a time. Many people have been saved and events are planned from October until March in the following cities: October 13-16, 2011 in Sidney, MT, October 27-30, 2011 in Watford City, ND and March 22-25, 2012 in Gillette, WY. Also, he is on 32 radio stations covering North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and parts of Canada.

And still he finds time to run his own service company and help his wife raise six kids!

May his tribe increase! Check him out at: www.preacherinthepatch.com

Over seven hundred gathered for the 13th Annual Prayer breakfast at the Crowne Plaza Hotel during the Offshore Technology Conference. The fellowship was great, the speaker Mr. Jay P. Still, Executive Vice President, Domestic Operations, Pioneer Natural Resources gave a superb presentation, the food was filling, the entertainment enjoyable and hopefully everyone had a great time as in the past.

The Smile Corner

Moving Dirt

The late R. G. LeTourneau, owner of a large earth-moving equipment company, told this story.

"We use to have a scraper known as the model 'G'. Someone asked one of our salesmen one day what the 'G' stood for.

The salesman, after thinking a few seconds, replied. "Well, I guess the 'G' stands for gossip, because like gossip, this machine moves a lot of dirt and moves it fast."

A Silver Lining

A youngster brought home his report card heavy with poor grades. His mother asked, "What have you to say about this?"

The boy replied, "One thing is for sure – you know I ain't cheatin'"

Good and Original

A student confronted the professor after class and asked for an explanation of the notations on his examination paper.

The student inquired, "How come I only got a D on a paper you marked 'good and original'.

The professor said that the explanation was simple: "The part that was good wasn't original, and the part that was original wasn't good."

United Kingdom

An executive who had recently hired an English secretary had to go on a business trip to London. While he was away, a salesman who had never spoken to the new secretary made one of his periodic phone calls to the executives office.

The secretary responded to the call by saying, "'I'm sorry but Mr. Allen is now in the United Kingdom." The salesman was shocked and replied, "I'm terribly sorry. Is it too late to send flowers?"

Chapter News - OCF Dallas

Betsy Cook's Story; Senior Engineer, Nexen Petroleum U.S.A.

My name is Betsy Cook and I was 24 years old in 1985 when high blood pressure sent me to the doctor and I found out that I have PKD. PKD is not new to my family. We can trace PKD back to my great-great grandfather who came over to America from Czechoslovakia in the 1800's. I knew my dad had a "kidney disease" as I was growing up. But it became very real when I was a freshman in high school and my dad started home dialysis. He was 40 years old. My dad died in 1986 at the age of 48 from complications of PKD and dialysis.

I have two brothers with PKD. One brother went on dialysis at age 40 and received a kidney transplant two years later in 2000. The other brother is involved in the PKD Foundation and is trying to keep his declining kidney function up through nutrition and exercise but without a cure, his kidneys will still fail. We recently found that my 22 year old son has PKD.

I'm fortunate that someone told me about the PKD Foundation in the mid nineties and I first got involved. I started attending the local chapter meetings and became a coordinator of the North Texas Chapter in 2004. The local chapter, besides raising valuable research funds to help find a cure for PKD, allows me to get the information I need to help manage my PKD and help others get "empowered" with the latest research information and PKD related knowledge.

I am now 49 years old and I will be getting a kidney transplant on June 15, 2011 at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, MN from a living non-related donor who is a friend of the family. Because of my involvement with the PKD Foundation I knew to watch my function and had the knowledge to arrange my transplant before I needed dialysis. I plan to continue to help the PKD Foundation find a cure or treatment for PKD through raising funds and awareness of polycystic kidney disease.

A recent note from Betsy and a good report about the operation

Thanks for asking for details about my transplant. I have PKD, polycystic kidney disease. It's an inherited genetic disease that you have a 50% chance of passing on to your children. I've known I've had it since I was about 24 years old and have been on blood pressure meds since then. Over time cysts have formed on my kidneys and taken up the good filtering tissue. When my function got below 20% last fall I was able to get on the transplant list and a family friend volunteered to give me a kidney. The friend qualified and I'm going to be able to get the kidney before my kidneys fail and I need to go on dialysis. My husband, Chris, and I have one 23 year old son, Joel. We know that he has PKD too. There are some encouraging drug treatments in clinical trials that could stop the cysts growth. So hopefully Joel will not have kidney failure in his future. I am so thankful that I'll have my transplant before I need dialysis. And God was so good to put it upon our friend's heart to offer to donate a kidney to me several years before I needed it. (I think God was letting me know then that he had it covered!) I'm going to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, MN to get my transplant. The transplant date is June 15. Thanks for your prayers!

After the operation - an e mail from Betsy, June 20th

John:

"It went well. I'm out of the hospital as of yesterday. Doing lab work & doctors visits today as an outpatient. Feeling pretty good. Mostly sore. The new kidney is working well. I dropped the phone this morning when it rang & the battery fell out. So it did not record your call. Sorry I missed it. Thanks for checking on me! God is GREAT!"

— Betsy

Editor: Betsy's testimony can be found in the Oilfield Christian Fellowship custom Bible, God's Word for the Oil Patch. She is a core group member of the Dallas OCF and among other things arranges the speakers each month. You can also keep up with her recovery at: www.caringbridge.org/visit/betsycook and learn more about her donor.

Chapter News - OCF Wyoming

Greetings from the OCF of Wyoming!

Once again we give thanks to everyone that is heading up each unit. For the last few months we have had separate meetings and still we think this is the way to go. But we will still try to gather all units at least a few times each year and as we move into some warmer weather all units are encouraged to attend the adopt-a-highway trash pick up and BBQ. This date will be a great time of fellowship as this will be the last meeting that Drew and Pam Crabtree will attend as they step away from the oil patch ministry and return to Missouri.

Please keep these two in your prayers as they are a blessing to this fellowship. Only the Lord knows where they will continue doing His work but we hope to have them back here in Wyoming soon.

Now we would like to remind everyone again that we still need to elect officers and if by the beginning of May we have no one interested we will have to make changes to our by-laws. The fellowship is not asking anyone interested to put in 40 hrs a week. We just need a few people willing to help make decisions related to this fellowship. If anyone is interested please contact us.

Hope to see you all at one of the meetings, - OCF of Wyoming

Mission Statement:
